THE manager of the burlesque company here last week is authority for the statement that the "High Life Girls" appearing at the Grand tonight is one of the best if not the best attraction on the National wheel. In the cast are found the much advertised Miss Pennington, Italian queen of burlesque, Ambark Ali, comedian and producer and Billy Barry of Barry and Fay. Some beautiful faces and forms will be found in the young and gingery chorus, while the two premier comedians and three partners will appear in side-splitting farces endeavoring to untangle the story in the plot, which all the time grows funnier. To cap the climax, will be seen the feature of which Philadelphia papers spoke so highly, the classical dance of Ocher. Twenty good live musical numbers sandwiched frequently throughout the program will afford melody and chorus dancing enough to keep one in a happy mood. Electrical and other scenic effects are said to be better than the ordinary, and a high water mark in burlesque entertainment is confidently looked for by the management of the Grand.

Wonderful Little Show.

A wonderful little show is that at the Hipp the first three days of this week, the last showing of the present attraction being tonight. The Midgets themselves are real clever little entertainers with a snap and keen enjoyment of the notoriety they are attaining, and very proud of the reception that is being given them at the Hipp. The strong man is some guy when it comes to weight lifting, and if there was any idea that the big anvil and ball were paper last night, it was dispelled when the midget strong man slung them out to the wing and they hit the floor with a thump that shook the entire stage. The izzy character was some boy, and has a faculty of mixing his face up with a lot of curves that kept the folks laughing most of the time when he was before them. With his pal, he did a little dancing stunt that was amusing. We are going to suggest that the little lady provide herself with plenty of life insurance as her dancing partner is likely to drop her one of these days at the finals. The regular lineup is a live bunch, all fine looking, good singers and dancers, and the best trained chorus seen for some time. Hienrich says that the same quality is going to fill out the week. The Zarrow "Fashionettes" are billed for three days. Raymond Lewis is one of the local favorites with the organization as is Johnny Sneed and Gladys Clark. The big feature is said to be the girl with the X-Ray Eyes who created such a sensation in Pittsburgh vaudeville circles recently.

Kerrigan's Best Work.

J. Warren Kerrigan in the comedy-drama "A White Man's Chance" showing at the Princess, does some of the most finished work of his career. His impersonation of a Mexican aristocrat is satisfying. The production which is an adaptation of a magazine story by Johnston McCulley, is of the exhilarant sort with touches of comedy and thrills supplied by very genuine looking Mexican bandits who manage to inject considerable action into the picture. Lillian Walker has the feminine lead, and plays the part of Dorothy Charlton attractively. Andrew Arbuckle as Valentino, whose dream of joy is to be a valet to a real aristocrat, does some of the best work in the picture. The characterization is interesting and varied in type from the dignified owner of the old Mexican ranch to the insignificant would-be lover of Dorothy, and the cruel native Juan Lopez.

The picture is well staged, and the story with the slightest suggestion of farce, is interesting as light stories go.

Excellent Cash In This.

The Dixie picture, "A Little Brother of the Rich," is an adaptation of the

WIFE HELPED BY THE PLANT JUICE

Sensational Testimony Given by Pittsburgh Man in the
New Medicine

One of the most recent statements made praising Plant Juice is that of Mr. B. J. Kaufman, who resides at No. 2215 East St., North Side, Pittsburgh, a popular machinist in the employ of a large local concern. He tells how his wife was relieved of a severe case of stomach trouble after she had practically given up all hope of getting better.

"For years my wife has been troubled with her stomach; she could not digest the lightest kind of food and it would ferment and she was bloated with gas and in constant pain. She had no appetite, could not sleep at night and got so run down we did not know what to do for her, as she had tried so many medicines without any benefit whatever. Through the advice of a friend she started to take Plant Juice and it has put her stomach in fine condition. She is able to sleep at night, has a good appetite and enjoys her meals. She has no more gas in her system. We certainly feel it a duty to endorse Plant Juice."

There are numerous symptoms of this trouble that Plant Juice can relieve. In fact, any one of the following may denote affections of the stomach: Indigestion, dyspepsia, bad breath, sick, throbbing headache, constipation, that tired feeling, night sweats, poor circulation, costiveness, coated tongue or a poor complexion. Plant Juice is sold in Fairmont at Fairmont Pharmacy.

naval of the same name, written by Joseph Medill Patterson, which created more than passing interest some years ago. It really probes quite deeply into modern life, and offers a social study that will cause thoughtful people to ponder.

It is told in delightful story form, but carries a lesson that is all the stronger because it is so skillfully hidden. Paul Potter's career is not without many precedents, and in spite of his fundamental weakness of character, the spectator will give a sigh of sympathetic understanding at the manner in which his own ambitions trick him out of what he most desires. The story is not one of the popular, surface type, but it is so intensely human and reflects problems of such universal consequence that it will undoubtedly make a strong impression. The production has been given a clear and attractive presentation, and the high lights of the original story have been brought out. The work of the cast is highly commendable, giving a well balanced effect from the acting standpoint.

Vivian Martin at Nelson.

Those who like delightful comedy, tense drama and gripping tragedy will have an opportunity to see all these elements in "Louisiana," the new Paramount picture starring Vivian Martin, which will be shown at the Nelson theatre today.

Much of the comedy is provided by an old negro mammy nurse, the tragedy by a jealous, hot-blooded young mountaineer, and the drama and romance by the hero and heroine, while Miss Martin, the star, with her usual versatility, adds to the production a goodly measure of each element.

Alice Eytan adapted the story from the novel "Louisiana," by Frances Hodgson Burnett.

Prepare Now For INFLUENZA

Renew Your Vitality with Pepsinol before the Second Epidemic Comes

BUILD up your vitality to withstand Influenza. Medical experts agree that another epidemic is coming. No one knows when or where it will strike. Its havoc is greatest among those whose vitality is low, whose powers of resistance are weakened by neglect of their health. If you would protect yourself, shield your family from this terrible disease, there is nothing better than Pepsinol, the restorative tonic, strength builder and general conditioner.

German bullets and shells killed many thousands of American boys at Chateau Thierry, at Belleau Wood, on the Hindenburg Line and in the Argonne Forest, but our losses in the war were minimal as compared with the losses inflicted by Influenza at home. Whole families were destroyed by the plague in a few days. The death rate was the highest ever known in this country.

The second epidemic may be still worse. Physicians declare it's near at hand. Now is the time for you to prepare yourself, to build up your strength, refresh and invigorate your nerves. As you know, the weak are particularly liable to attack by Influenza.

Provide for your safety with Pepsinol. It strengthens you, builds up your power of resistance to disease. Don't let impure blood, weak nerves, weak tissues make you a victim of the dreaded Influenza. Pepsinol makes the entire constitution vigorous and robust, strengthens every vital organ whose weakness invites disease.

In the city of Washington, the National Capital, there were 224 deaths from influenza from January 1, 1919, to September 14, 1919. Many thousands more were stricken but recovered. A large percentage of the convalescents, however, were so weakened that they fell easy victims to other diseases, such as lung or heart trouble and similar ailments. In country districts the death rate was exceedingly high.

If you are run down, all tired out, suffer from dyspepsia or indigestion, are nervous and sickly, sleep badly and fitfully, Pepsinol is what you need to bring you back to a normal condition of health and to give you the endurance, strength and vitality that must be had to assure complete recovery from Influenza or to ward it off.

Genuine Pepsinol, compounded in strict accordance with the standards of the U. S. Pharmacopoeia and made only by The Pepsin Medicine Company, Memphis, Tenn., is recommended by physicians and specialists to strengthen weakened constitutions before and after sickness. If you are sickly, you will be astonished by the quickness with which Pepsinol restores you to health. You may get it from the authorized Pepsinol agent in your locality.
